LET BIDS FOR SCHOOL HOUSE

Noble Township Advisory Board
Awards Contract For New Salem
Building For $24,667.

TO BE BUILT NEXT SUMMER

It Will be Modern in Every Respect and Will Consist of 6 Rooms
And Auditorium.

The contract for the Noble township high school building, to be erected in New Salem next summer, was let yesterday afternoon at Sparks & Gary's law office, to James I. Barnes, of Logansport, and W. H. Johnson & Son, of Indianapolis. The total of the bids offered by the two successful contracting firms is $24,667, which will be the total cost of the new building, with the exception of the plumbing, which will not be over $400 and some other small incidental expenses.

The school house will be modern in every particular and will prescribe in detail to the State law in regard to the erection of sanitary school buildings. The work will be started this spring just as soon as school is dismissed and the contract calls for the completion of the building on or before September 1, 1912.

James I. Barnes' bid was $21,717, the lowest one offered on the general contract. There were seven other bids made on the general contract. The successful bid on the heating plant contract, made by W. H. Johnson & Son, was $2,950. There were five offers made on that part of the work.

The advisory board of Noble township and the trustee, Edgar Morris, expected to hold another meeting this afternoon when the kind of brick to be used in the building was to be selected. There are sixty-two samples of brick scattered over the local law office and the board and trustee will have to choose from this number.

The building will consist of six class rooms and an auditorium. Folding doors will be provided in the center of the auditorium so that it may be changed into two rooms if it becomes necessary. This plan was followed and deemed a wise one because it may be necessary some day, if the enrollment of the school becomes larger, use the auditorium for class rooms.

The very newest kind of roofing will be used on the structure. It is known as abestor plate and will withstand the worst kind of treatment. It is waterproof and a non-conductor of lighting. It is made of cement of abestos, amplies of the new roofing were thrown about on the floor of the law office to test its durability and all manner of slamming on the floor failed to break or even crack them.

The board and trustee advertised according to law that the old building would be sold to the highest bidder at the same time the contract was awarded. James I. Barnes, the contractor, agreed in his bid to take the old building in at $1,200, which was the largest sum offered for it, and which the board and trustee and their advisors considered a very good price for the structure.

The Logansport man who got the general contract, is said to be a very competent man and is fully capable of handling the job. He had the contract for building the new $97,000 high school building which was dedicated at Shelbyville about a month ago. Entire satisfaction has been expressed in the Shelbyville building.

The erection of the new building at New Salem is the result of action taken by some residents of Noble township who petitioned the State

MRS. GEORGE STOUT DEAD

Expired This Morning After Three Weeks' Illness.

Mrs. Daisy Stout, 28 years old, wife of George Stout, died this morning at six o'clock at her home, corner of Ninth and Arthur streets. Mrs. Stout had been ill about three weeks suffering with a tumor. She is survived by her husband and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Floyd, and three sisters, Mrs. Commodore Bennett, Mrs. Will Moore and Mrs. Will Stout, and four brothers, Edward, Will, Otto and Clarence Floyd. The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at one o'clock at the late residence. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

HIGH RUN RECORD POSTED BY JARVIS

Made Nineteen Balls and Scratched on Twentieth—Lost by Score of 100 to 89.

ALSMAN PLAYED STEADY GAME

After making a sensational start and gaining a good lead, Clifford Jarvis "fell down" and lost to Tom Alsmen last night in the pool tournament. The game was one of the best of the tournament and was witnessed by a large crowd. The final score was 100 to 89. But the score tells very little of the game. The high run mark of the tournament was broken by Jarvis and the record he posted will be hard to equal. Jarvis run nineteen balls and scratched on making the twentieth. The best previous run was fifteen balls made by Earl Osborne, in the first game. Jarvis held the lead until the last half of the contest, when he seemed to go "up in the air" and Alsmen, by steady and consistent playing won out. Alsmen played in fine form and can be counted as a contender for the championship. Tonight Ed Pitman and Earl Moore will play.

HITCHRACK STILL AN OPEN QUESTION

Merchants Will Ask County Council to Appropriate Funds to Pay Rent on Ground.

MERCHANTS WILL PAY TENDER

The regular meeting of the Rushville Retail Merchants Association was held in the court house last night with only a few business men out. The extension of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company's lines to Cincinnati was discussed at length by the merchants. It was the will of the association that the secretary be instructed to present a request to the county council asking that body to appropriate money to pay the rent for the hitchrack back of the county jail. The merchants will agree to pay the tender. The business men have found it next to impossible to get enough weekly subscriptions to pay both.

PLEADED GUILTY.

Herbert Estal pleaded guilty to public intoxication yesterday afternoon before Mayor Black and was fined one dollar and costs, which was stayed. Estal was arrested by Chief McAllister and Policeman Walters.

TAKES ACTION IN MANY CASES

Court Sets Few Down For Trial,
Some Are Dismissed And

GRAND JURY NOT IN SESSION

Gilbert C. Monfort, Fraudulent Check
Writer, is Not Arraigned—Case
Sent to Hancock.

It was expected that Gilbert C. Monfort, the Milroy man against whom a grand jury indictment, charging the passing of fraudulent checks, was returned late yesterday, would be arraigned in court today, but such was not the case. It is said that Monfort will enter a plea of guilty and rest on the leniency of the court.

The grand jury adjourned indefinitely yesterday afternoon. It is not known what other investigations it will take up during the remainder of the session, nor is it known whether it contemplates any more at present.

In the divorce case of Alice Loyd against Joel T. Loyd notes were entered on the court docket to show that the defendant had defaulted and the prosecutor was ordered to appear and file an answer to the plaintiff.

This morning the court was busy setting down cases for trial, dismissing suits and making notations of actions taken in other cases.

The partition suit of Alva M. Nelson et al against Marshall Hittle and Almira Keaton was set down this morning for trial on Tuesday, February 27.

The case of the State against John Wolters, charged in a grand jury with assault and battery, was postponed this morning until the next term of court on the motion of the plaintiff's attorney. The suit was set for trial today.

The case of Ephraim Ball and Sylvester Bankert against the L. E. & W. railroad for damages was sent to the Hancock circuit court on a change of venue. The plaintiffs want damages for the loss of wheat in the transportation of a car load of grain from Plymouth, Ind., to Noblesville, Ind.

The divorce case of Andy Ramer against Donnie Ramer was dismissed by the court for the lack of prosecution.

The case of Erdman, trustee, against the Greensburg National bank, which was sent here on a change of venue from Decatur county to set aside a preference, was to be heard by the court today. The plaintiff's attorneys asked that the case be continued until next term of court, on account of the illness of some of the plaintiff's attorneys.

The case of Anna Carroll against John Carroll for a divorce and $10,000 alimony will be about the only divorce suit to be heard this term unless others are filed. This morning the court set it down on the court calendar for trial Tuesday, February 27. The defendant is a wealthy farmer of Anderson township and the plaintiff is said to be living with her parents in Washington township.

The divorce case of Bertha Bloom against Charles Bloom was dismissed this morning on motion of the plaintiff's attorneys. It is said that Mrs. Bloom anticipates moving out of the county, but that no reconciliation had been effected between herself and her husband.

Montana farmers who have been handicapped by the scarcity of laborers, are delighted with an invasion of Hindoos, who till lately found employment only at day labor on the streets or railroads. They do very well on the farms, and are content with $1.20 a day.

SUGAR MAKING TIME IS NEAR

Chirping of Birds is Expected to be Heard Soon and Sugar Water
Will Flow.

FARMERS ARE VERY OPTIMISTIC

Predict This Will be Great Year For Freezing Due to Continued
Cold Weather.

"One or two more mornings like this and the sugar birds will be chirping. I think I'll go home, look over the spiles, get out the sap buckets and tinker up the evaporator."

The foregoing remark was dropped this forenoon by a Union township farmer who has a sugar orchard of about two hundred trees, and who owns up that the maple syrup season is the happiest time in all the year for him.

Nearly all the farmers who have sugar camps are predicting that this is going to be a great year for molasses. They say the winter has been just right—plenty of snow and a freeze that has kept the sap locked up down in the roots.

"Look out for it when it starts," said the Union township man. "Give us the right kind of a thaw and the sugar water will come with a gush. When the sap starts up this year, it is going to come in a stream."

While maple syrup making has lost some of the picturesqueness that attached to it in the good old days, there is still enough of that sort of thing connected with it to engage the fancy of every fellow who loves the smell of the bush and the breath of out-doors. The modern evaporator has supplanted the iron kettles and stirring pans of the earlier days, the sap bucket has taken the place of the hewn trough in which the run was formerly caught, and the portable tank is now used to convey the sap to the sugar house, instead of the barrel and mudboat of a more primitive period. But despite these improvements, the process of sugar-making is delightful. There is nothing else in all farm life quite like it. It is one of the things in which men in truth get "near to nature's heart." Only those who have spent a night in a camp, in the glow of the furnace and the odor of the simmering sap, know how fine a thing it is. Only those who have ridden forth through the woods at dawn, through the scent of spice and hazel and alder, to gather the treasure from the bleeding trees, know the heart-deep joy of sugar-making.

Rush county farmers for several years have had the good sense to preserve their sugar trees to be cut except those which are showing signs of decay. If this practice is continued, the sugar camps of the county will endure for many years yet. The only drawback to sugar making is the increasing shortage of cheap fuel. It has only been a few years since fuel was abundant on every farm. Now practically every farm is without fallen timber, it having been cleared away. As a result, many of the owners of sugar groves have been put to the necessity of buying coal with which to operate their evaporators. This makes the process of syrup making much more expensive than it was when plenty of wood was at hand and to be had for the cutting.

It is thought that every sugar camp in the county will be operated this year. Every farmer who owns a camp feels that it is going to be a good year for molasses making and does not want to miss it. The usual season for opening camps is the last ten days in February. The present indications are that it will be here this year at the usual period.

JAMES BLEVINS SUCCEUMBS

Dies at Home of His Son Near Glenwood.

James H. Blevins, 78 years old, died this morning about 12:30 o'clock at the home of his son, Thomas Blevins, two miles northeast of Glenwood, after a long illness with kidney trouble. He is survived by five children. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock in the Wesley Chapel. Burial will take place in the cemetery there.

MAD DOG KILLED BY RICHARD ARNOLD

Canine Which Bit Oscar Reese's
Horse Causing Hydrophobia, Will Cause no More Trouble.

HEAD WILL NOT BE EXAMINED

The black shepherd dog which is believed to have been mad, and which bit a valuable horse belonging to Oscar Reese near Gings, causing hydrophobia to set in and caused its death, has been killed and is no longer at large to threaten the lives of animals and people in that vicinity. The dog was killed by Richard Arnold, living on the old Arnold farm, and when he read of the dog biting Mr. Reese's horse, he took the dog to the Reese farm. It was identified by Mr. Reese as the one which bit his horse and snapped at several people in that neighborhood. The dog's head will not be sent to the State board of health for examination as it is now thought there is no doubt but what it was mad since the horse which it bit developed hydrophobia and died.

TOM COLEMAN WILL BE CHIEF SPEAKER

Rush County Farmer Will Talk at the Posey Township Farmers Institute in Fayette County.

WILL BE ALL DAY MEETING

An all day meeting of the Posey township farmers institute will be held in the Bentonville hall, on next Tuesday, and with the plans now formed in operation, it is expected that the session will easily be the best ever held in that town, says the Connersville News.

The chief speaker of the occasion will be Thomas Coleman of Rush county, who is well known as one of the leading progressive farmers, both in the way of precept and practical example, to be found in this section of Indiana. Supplementing his lectures a number of speakers from the neighborhood will be heard, and there will be other features, such as music, and vocal numbers. At noon a dinner of substantial sort will be served.

Everyone is extended a cordial invitation to this meeting, and is assured of hearing something well worth while. Attractive prizes have been offered for various corn and other grain displays.

FALLS DOWN HILL.

Mrs. Maude Cartmel, 35, of St. Paul, while carrying a tub and bucketful of water up hill here, slipped on the ice and fell down the hill. She was being assisted by her daughter. She received a broken kneecap, two teeth were knocked out and her chest was badly crushed.

DEHORITY ASKS MANY QUESTIONS

Chief of State Board of Accounts
Plans to Frame Bill For Salary
Revision.

IS SENDING OUT BLANKS

Would Know Duties of Various County
And Township Officers Over
The State.

W. A. Dehority, chief of the state board of accounts has prepared to send blanks to township trustees, county auditors, county treasurers, clerks of circuit courts, boards of county commissioners and prosecuting attorneys for information to be placed before the next general assembly as a basis for a revision of the fees and salaries laws as were needed. A total of 349 questions are asked the county officials and trustees. The question are designed to collect information concerning the amount of business done in the respective offices the amount of time given the work by the official in fees collected and retained salaries received, etc.

The blanks were prepared in response to a concurrent resolution introduced by Albert J. Veneman, speaker of the house in the recent session, who suggested the move as a sensible way of getting at facts concerning fees and salaries that public officials were asking to have increased. The adoption of the resolution promptly put a stop to a dozen or more bills then under way to increase salaries in various counties in the state.

The number of questions asked the county officials is as follows: Sheriffs, forty; assessors, forty-seven; auditors, seventy-three; treasurers, forty-seven; recorders eighteen; coroners, fifteen; clerks of courts, fifty-two; board of county commissioners, thirty; prosecuting attorneys, twenty-seven.

Copies of the lists will be sent by Mr. Dehority to members of the house and senate in the recent session.

HOG BITES OFF HIS LITTLE FINGER

Will Webster, Living Near Carthage, is Attacked by Porker While
He is Unconscious.

SLIPS AND FALLS ON THE ICE

While working about his barn lot a few days ago, on his farm, northwest of Carthage, Will Webster slipped on the ice and his head struck a beam of the barn, rendering him unconscious. He lay sometime in that condition, and was aroused to consciousness by sudden pain in one hand. He found several hogs had surrounded him, and one had bitten off one of his fingers. It is fortunate that he was aroused when he was, else his fate might have been much worse. As it was, he suffered very little injury.

TOURISTS, THANK YOU.

St. Petersburg (Fla.) Independent: Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Wellman of Rushville, Ind., tourists, came in last evening expecting to spend several months. This is their first visit to the State and they are greatly pleased with the climate, having made a jump in the last few days from zero weather.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. William Evans, D. D., Director Bible Course Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 18.

MINISTRY OF JOHN THE BAPTIST.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:1-8; Luke 3:1-20. MEMORY VERSES—Luke 3:3, 9 or 16, 17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.—Matt. 3:2.

The story of John the Baptist's ministry, opening as it does with a prophetic reference, connects the Old and the New Testaments, showing the New to be the fulfillment of the Old. Thus we say: The Old is in the New contained, the New is in the Old explained; the Old is in the New concealed, the New is in the Old revealed. Christ is the theme and unifier of both Testaments. If he had not been coming, the Old would not have been written; if he had not come, the New would not have been written.

What a strange impression this fiery preacher of the wilderness, John, must have made upon his hearers! His dress, as his message, bore the marks of the wild. Strange, is it not, that such a one should be chosen to prepare the way for the Messiah? We might have chosen a different instrument—a well dressed, polished, eloquent, silver-tongued orator.

The Baptist's message had its basis in the word of God—"The word of God came unto John in the wilderness." That is where every pulpit message ought to come from. The business of the preacher and teacher of Christ is not to invent a gospel, but to proclaim one already provided. The Bible is the final critic of the message.

John's ministry was preparatory; it looked forward to the coming of something better. Just as John himself gave way to Christ, so his message of repentance made room for faith in Christ. John baptized with water unto repentance. The Baptists' ministry went no farther than that. Jesus Christ turned the water of John's baptism into steam by the fire of the Holy Ghost. John prepared; Jesus regenerated.

The necessity for repentance cannot be overlooked in this lesson. In a sense, it is the first step into the Kingdom. Both John and Jesus began their ministry with a call to repentance.

Repentance is clearly defined in this lesson as a turning from a life of sin to a life of righteousness. There are three elements in repentance: First, the intellect is involved—it is a change of mind or viewpoint; second, the emotions are involved—it means to have a care regarding the thing in question, so we find the words "sigh," "grief," substituted for repentance; third, the will plays a prominent part in repentance, for there is included in the word the idea of an after-thought, resulting in a change in one's course of action. Repentance is not only a heart broken for sin, but also from sin.

That this is John's meaning of repentance is clear from his exhortation to those who asked him the meaning of his call to repentance—exact no more than that which is appointed you; do violence to no man, neither accuse any falsely; bring forth, therefore, fruits worthy of repentance. A little boy was once asked the meaning of repentance. He replied: "It means being sorry enough for a thing so as not to do it again."

John preached the wrath to come. Evidently he believed in future punishment. He did not believe that the desire to escape future punishment was sufficient or the best reason why men should receive Jesus Christ. And it may be that no man really becomes a Christian who seeks to be one only that he may escape the results of his sin. We are saved that we may glorify God in the life that now is as well as to be delivered from the wrath to come. He who does not serve Christ here will not dwell with him in heaven.

The fact of wrath and future punishment is not an invention of modern theology. Christ believed in it and taught it when he referred to the "worm that dieth not," and the fire that is not quenched," and pictured the ungodly being cast into "everlasting fire." We should have to blot out a large part of the Bible if we were to blot out all the Scriptures which teach future retribution for sin. When we consider the fearful atrocities perpetrated upon the sons of men, the frightful iniquities practiced upon helpless women and children, and then see the ease and luxury and splendor in which the perpetrators of these crimes live, we would be very sorry to be assured that there is no future retribution for the perpetrators of such deeds. Give the justice of heaven the same degree of common sense consideration that you give to the justice of earth, and somewhere in the other world you must place a penitentiary.

John's preaching drew the crowds, and so will the preaching and teaching of the Gospel today, when proclaimed by men as consecrated to their mission as John the Baptist was to his. The crowd have not tired of the Gospel, but only of the average preacher of the Gospel. The messenger, and not the message, is at fault. The hearts of men with all their needs, as well as the Gospel of Christ with all its power, is the same today as when Christ walked upon the earth. John was a bold preacher, and a study of his life shows us that he died because of his bold rebuke of Herod's sin.

Christian Endeavor

TOPIC FOR FEBRUARY 18, 1912.

"No" and "Yes." When to Say Them. Ps. 57:1-11.

The importance of a word is not governed by its size. "No" and "yes" are short but great.

On election day the voter's X opposite "yes" or "no" on the ballot means more than the months of discussion from platform and press that have preceded his act.

"No" and "yes" do not stand alone. They are leaders followed by results which may be good or bad, sorrowful or joyful. The person who says "no" or "yes" cannot avoid the consequences. He who wants joy must say "yes" to the influences of life that make for joy.

Many men, though once surrounded with the best of influences, are numbered among Chicago's "down and outs" today because in some weak moment they said "yes" to the allurements of sin and "no" to the call of purity, justice and high ideals.

A "yes" to sin is "no" to God. There is no neutral ground. "Yes" to the appeal of Christ is "no" to sin and means everlasting life from the moment that "yes" is said.

Say "no" to the impulses of lust and passion. Say "yes" to the impulses toward generosity and right.

Next Week's Meeting.

Topic: The home missionary whose life has most inspired me. Acts 10:23-25. You can secure from your denominational board little leaflets giving striking instances from the lives of home missionaries. Copy similar instances from the missionary books and magazines in your possession. Give these to the members a week in advance and ask them to give the substance in their own words in the meeting.

YOU CAN HAVE HEALTHY HAIR

Use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. A Harmless Remedy That Makes the Hair Grow.

What a pity it is to observe so many people with thin and faded hair and then realize that the most of these people might have a fine, healthy head of hair if they would but use the simple "sage tea" of our grandmothers, combined with other ingredients for restoring and preserving the hair. No one, young or old, need have gray hair, weak, thin or falling hair, dandruff or any trouble of the sort if they would but use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. On the contrary, it is possible to have healthy, vigorous hair, of perfect color, by a few applications of this remarkable preparation.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly removes dandruff, leaves the scalp clean and healthy, promotes the growth of the hair and restores the natural color of the hair which has become faded or gray. It is a clean, wholesome dressing, which may be used at any time and with perfect safety. Don't neglect your hair. Start to-day with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Hargrove and Mullin, where.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

Certain Ingredients That Really Promote Hair growth When Properly Combined.

Resorcin is one of the most effective germ destroyers ever discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Naphthol, which is both germicidal and antiseptic, a combination is formed which destroys the germs which rob the hair of its natural nourishment, and also creates a clean, healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Pilocarpin, although not a coloring matter or dye, is a well-known ingredient for restoring the hair to its natural color, when the loss of hair has been caused by a disease of the scalp.

These ingredients in proper combination, with alcohol added as a stimulant and for its well-defined nourishing properties, perfect perhaps the most effective remedy that is known for scalp and hair troubles.

We have a remedy which is chiefly composed of these ingredients, in combination with other extremely invaluable medicinal agents. We guarantee it to positively cure dandruff and to grow hair, even though the scalp in spots is bare of hair. If there is any vitality left in the roots, it will positively cure baldness, or we will refund your money. If the scalp has a glazed, shiny appearance, it's an indication that baldness is permanent, but in other instances we believe baldness is curable.

We want every one troubled with scalp disease or loss of hair to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. If it does not cure dandruff and grow hair to the satisfaction of the user, we will without question or quibble return every cent paid us for it. We print this guarantee on every bottle. It has effected a positive cure in 93 per cent. of cases where put to a practical test.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely unlike, and we think, in every particular, better than anything else we know of for the purpose for which it is prescribed. We urge you to try this preparation at our entire risk. Certainly we know of no better guarantee to give you. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Rushville only at our store—The Rexall Store, Lytle's Drug Store, Corner Third and Main.

Official Report Shows Its Gradual Increase.

IS BECOMING MORE MARKED

President Ryan of the Iron Workers, Who Is Among Those Accused of Horrid Crime, Talks of Levying an Assessment on Members of His Union, While Other Union Toolers Will Also Be Asked to Respond to Appeal.

Indianapolis, Feb. 16.—The indicted dynamiters have been in conference with leaders of organized labor in this city, and there are strong indications that the men who are in the government's clutches will not only have the sympathy, but financial help from the leaders not indicted. President Ryan of the iron workers has decided to ask the 13,000 members of that organization to submit to an assessment of 50 cents a month to establish a fund for the defense of himself and members of the executive board, and it is said that he has been assured that the heads of the other union organizations will either consider assessments or ask for voluntary contributions to such a fund.

One of the questions much discussed in labor circles today is that of a change of venue from Judge Albert Anderson of the federal court. The Central Labor Union adopted resolutions severely criticising Judge Anderson for releasing William J. Burns, who was indicted in the alleged kidnapping cases, and they say that Anderson's statement on that occasion is sufficient to show prejudice. The attorneys for the indicted men say that the matter has not been discussed between them and their clients, and that it is too early to speak definitely about it. President Kinney of the Central Labor Union said that an appeal would be made to the department of justice to appoint a special judge to try the cases.

An Extraordinary Showing.

In its nation-wide "haul" in the dynamite cases, the government has arrested every man except one that it expected to arrest. This is regarded as an extraordinary showing, since twenty-five federal districts were affected. The only man the federal authorities expected to get in the big roundup who has not yet been taken into custody is William K. Benson, former president of the Detroit Federation of Labor, and said to have been active in the Detroit dynamite plots of 1910 and early in 1911. Benson, who had been a very prominent Detroit labor man for several years, left that city last summer and had been in New York recently. When the hour for arrest arrived, federal officials did not know exactly where to put their fingers on him. That he will be arrested later is assured, government officials here say.

District Attorney Miller says that Patrick Ryan of Chicago, former business agent of the iron workers local No. 1; John J. McCray, formerly of Wheeling, W. Va., and a former member of the executive board of the international union, and J. W. Irwin, former officer of the Peoria iron workers' local, are men whom government agents have not been able to find at any time since the federal investigation began. It was known that Frank K. Painter, business agent of the Omaha local, had left Omaha three or four weeks ago, and while the government did not have him located in time for the arrest, the assurance is given that he will be arrested. Milton H. Davis of Philadelphia, former member of the international executive board, was another man on whom the agents had no "line," and it was known in advance that he would not be caught in the general haul. That Davis will be arrested later is also said to be assured.

Expected to Plead Guilty.

The first of the defendants arrested in the dynamite cases placed in the Marion county jail were Ernest G. W. Basey, former business agent of the iron workers here; Edward Clark, former business agent at Cincinnati, and Hiram Cline of Muncie, formerly a general organizer of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. These men were unable to furnish bond, the amount in each case being $5,000.

Government officials expect some of the indicted men to plead guilty when the fifty-four are arraigned on March 12. They will not say who is likely to "come through," but it is generally believed that Herbert S. Hockin, present secretary-treasurer of the iron workers, is one of the men who is ready to confess. It is said that Hockin has already made a confession to a Burns detective, and that he made this the basis of his request for immunity when he conferred with the attorney.

It is quite certain that the dynamiting inquiry has not been completed, and it is said that the grand jury will take it up again at no distant day. The supposed connection of other men not indicted is known to have been looked into. Because evidence was either lacking or of very uncertain character, charges were not preferred by the grand jury, it is said. If the future brings out additional facts to substantiate some of those already in the possession of the government, another investigation may be looked for.

We hope, however the election goes this fall, that there will be no kicking. It is always possible that the majority may be right.

It is very strange that the reporter in writing up the society weddings, do not mention the real fact that the decorations consisted of dollars.

J. P. Morgan paid $29,000 for a Bible, but almost any Sunday school would give him one for nothing if he will attend every Sunday for a year.

There is a general agreement in Congress that a determined and patriotic resistance must be made to the encroachments of the economy power.

Now that J. P. Morgan is on his way to Egypt, we wish he would attend to the long postponed duty of removing one or two of the pyramids to Coney Island.

They have been getting temperatures of 42 below up in Canada, but in that climate this is merely a reminder to cover up the garden vegetables before the really heavy frosts come along.

Ex-Gov. Herrick is to be minister to France. He should make it his duty to go around to Maxim's at daylight, lead home the American tourists and put them to bed.

Forty-five thousand Americans in peril in Mexico. Their situation is much as if the kindergarten should undertake to hold school on the football field while a Yale-Harvard game was going on.

Economy has always been a great Democratic platform blank, and a favorite way of getting it is to hold back the bills so that the next administration of wicked Republicans would have to pay them.

There is a popular demand to witness murder trials. Why not have them in halls like those used by the national conventions, where the jury could know how to decide by the cheering in the galleries?

There is a general feeling that if the Monetary Commission law goes through, the new association should meet in Walla Walla, Wash., or Key West, Fla., or some place a good long distance from Wall street.

The powers are trying to persuade Italy and Turkey to stop the war. The Powers can bear up under the bloodshed with equanimity, but there is the possibility that one of the combatants might get some territory.

George Bernard Shaw says all decent people are arrested in America. George would not be so bitter if he realized how many worthy persons are thus given a winter's board who could not get it any other way.

In places where the skating is good, it is complained that the children take their skates to Sunday school. It shows unusual forbearance, however that the children do not demand that the Sunday school furnish the skates.

WANT ADS BRING RESULTS.

A thrill of emotion will pass through the feminine world, on learning that women about Boston have appealed to the Massachusetts Railroad Commission for lower car steps. The public service corporations will feel aggrieved if they must issue new stocks and bonds in order to adjust their vehicles to the present style of women's skirts.

There is a tendency among railroad people, however, to over-estimate the agility of the travelling public. To a man who spent his youth running over the tops of swiftly moving freight cars, and riding on engine cow catchers, a step of eighteen inches to two feet looks too trifling for any human being to consider.

The railroads might as well make up their minds that woman is queen over her own clothes, and all government, institutions, time tables, and rolling stock must conform to her convenience. Besides, there are other people who don't care for high car steps. If you are a traveling salesman, and have lugged a couple of heavy packing cases all over town, and turn up breathless at the station, it does not make you feel any better to have to climb up on a car-step with your impedimenta as if you were mounting on horseback.

SOCIETY NEWS

The Utopia club will entertain the husbands of the members at a six o'clock dinner this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. mith in North Jackson street.

A pretty home wedding took place Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wall of South Gallatin street, when their daughter, Miss Elsie Wall, was united in marriage to Merrill C. Coffin of Carthage, Ind., says the Marion Chronicle. The Wall home was pretty with its decorations of pink and white, the colors of the bride. Large vases of pink and white cut flowers were placed about the rooms. Miss Frances Wall, sister of the bride, played the Mendelssohn wedding march while the bride and bridegroom took their places in front of a bank of smilax in the front parlor. During the ceremony she played the Venitian Love Song. The service was read by the Rev. C. Wilson of Carthage. The couple was unattended. The bride wore a beautiful hand-embroidered lingerie gown. A two course lunch was served immediately following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Coffin have gone to Carthage to reside, where the bridegroom has prepared a home. The bride's going-away suit was a tailored suit of brown with hat to match. Miss Wall recently moved to Marion with her parents from Carthage, and has already won a large circle of friends. Mr. Coffin is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Unice Coffin of Carthage, and is employed there as assistant postmaster. Guests at the wedding were the Rev. and Mrs. C. Wilson of Carthage, Mr. and Mrs. Unice Coffin, parents of the bridegroom, Miss Sue Betherington of Piqua, Ohio, Mrs. Mary Wall, Mrs. Flo Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wall and son Charles, Miss Mary Wall and Leslie Wall of Marion.

Miss Estelle Jones will entertain the young ladies embroidery club at her home in North Perkins street tomorrow afternoon.

Twenty-five friends of Miss Alvirde McAllister pleasantly surprised her last evening at her home in North Harrison street, the occasion being her fourteenth birthday. The evening was spent in cards and dancing.

PLAN TO BUILD NEW CHURCH

Knightstown Presbyterians Expect to Start Whirlwind Campaign Soon.

Plans for the campaign to raise the funds to build a new Presbyterian church in Knightstown are now all but consummated. The report of the general committee is expected to be submitted Sunday, and it is expected that next week the active work of canvassing for funds will begin. Numerous committees, to have charge of the various phases of the undertaking, have been appointed and the canvass will be conducted by six teams of solicitors. It is expected to make a whirlwind campaign of it, and bring the matter to a conclusion at the earliest possible time.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace offers an extra program tonight, showing three reels of pictures and special music. "The Strangers" is the title of the first film. It is a stirring drama telling a beautiful story. The picture is a Rex film. "The Other Man" is a Nestor comedy. The third picture is an Itala, "Foolshead Manikan." The "Foolshead" pictures have proved very popular here and this one is said to be the equal of any shown. As a special feature Mill Lillian Priest will sing, "All Aboard For Blanket Bay."

"Cinderella," the three reel Selig production with Mabel Taliaferro as "Cinderella," the attraction at the Portola tonight and Saturday night, is said to be a wonderful dramatic spectacle. The story of "Cinderella" is well known and is acted by Taliaferro in a realistic manner. Besides Miss Taliaferro, the cast includes all the eastern Selig players and each is cast in a part suitable to his or her personality.

NOT STOLEN GOODS.

It was erroneously stated Wednesday that George Smalley is charged with selling stolen goods. Instead it should be that he is charged with selling mortgaged goods. The suit has been delayed several times by the persons prosecuting the case, and Mr. Smalley says he is ready to stand trial and prove his innocence of any such a charge.

Probably cloudy and unsettled tonight and Saturday. Moderate temperature.

"But then, what are we here for?" asked Raoul, in a transport of fever, impatience and rage. "If you can do nothing for Christine, at least let me die for her!"

The Persian tried to calm the young man.

"We have only one means of saving Christine Daee, believe me, which is to enter the house unperceived by the monster."

"And is there any hope of that, sir?"

"Ah, if I had not that bone, I would not have come to fetch you!"

"And how can one enter the house on the lake without crossing the lake?"

"From the third cellar, from which we were so unluckily driven away. We will go back there now. . . . I will tell you," said the Persian, with a sudden change in his voice, "I will tell you the exact place, sir; it is between a set piece and a discarded scene from Roi de Lahore, exactly at the spot where Joseph Buquet died. . . . Come, sir, take courage and follow me! And hold your hand at the level of your eyes! . . . But where are we?"

The Persian lit his lamp again and flung its rays down two enormous corridors that crossed each other at right angles.

"We must be," he said, "in the part used more particularly for the water-works. I see no fire coming from the furnaces."

He went in front of Raoul, seeking his road, stopping abruptly when he was afraid of meeting some water-man. Then they had to protect themselves against the glow of a sort of underground forge, which the men were extinguishing, and at which Raoul recognized the demons whom Christine had seen at the time of her first captivity.

In this way, they gradually arrived beneath the huge cellars below the stage. They must at this time have been at the very bottom of the "tub" and at an extremely great depth, when we remember that the earth was dug out at fifty feet below the water that lay under the whole of that part of Paris.

The Persian touched a partition-wall and said:

"If I am not mistaken, this is a wall that might easily belong to the house on the lake."

He was striking a partition-wall of the "tub," and perhaps it would be as well for the reader to know how the bottom of the partition-walls of the tub were built. In order to prevent the water surrounding the building-operations from remaining in immediately contact with the walls supporting the whole of the theatrical machinery, the architect was obliged to build a double case in every direction. The work of constructing this double case took a whole year. It was the wall of the first inner case that the Persian struck when speaking to Raoul of the house on the lake. To any one understanding the architecture of the edifice, the Persian's action would seem to indicate that Erik's mysterious house had been built in the double case, formed of a thick wall constructed as an embankment or dam, then of a brick wall, a tremendous layer of cement and another wall several yards in thickness.

At the Persian's words, Raoul flung himself against the wall and listened eagerly. But he heard nothing . . . nothing . . . except distant steps sounding on the floor of the upper portions of the theater.

The Persian darkened his lantern again.

"Look out!" he said. "Keep your hand up! And silence! For we shall try another way of getting in."

And he led him to the little staircase by which they had come down lately.

They went up, stopping at each step, peering into the darkness and the silence, till they came to the third cellar. Here the Persian motioned to Raoul to go on his knees; and, in this way, crawling on both knees and one hand—for the other hand was held in the position indicated—they reached the end wall.

Against this wall stood a large discarded scene from the Roi de Lahore. Close to this scene was a set piece. Between the scene and the set piece there was just room for a body . . . for a body which one day was found hanging there. The body of Joseph Buquet.

The Persian, still kneeling, stopped and listened. For a moment, he seemed to hesitate and looked at Raoul; then he turned his eyes upward, toward the second cellar, which sent down the faint glimmer of a lantern, through a cranny between two boards. This glimmer seemed to trouble the Persian.

At last, he tossed his head and made up his mind to act. He slipped between the set piece and the scene from the Roi de Lahore, with Raoul close upon his heels. With his free hand, the Persian felt the wall. Raoul saw him bear heavily upon the wall, just as he had pressed against the wall in Christine's dressing-room. Then a stone gave way, leaving a hole in the wall.

This time, the Persian took his pistol from his pocket and made a sign to Raoul to do as he did. He cocked the pistol.

And, resolutely, still on his knees, he wiggled through the hole in the wall. Raoul, who had wished to pass first, had to be content to follow him.

The hole was very narrow. The Persian stopped almost at once. Raoul heard him feeling the stones around him. Then the Persian took out his dark lantern again, stooped forward, examined something beneath him and immediately extinguished his lantern. Raoul heard him say, in a whisper:

"We shall have to drop a few yards, without making a noise; take off your boots."

The Persian handed his own shoes to Raoul.

"Put them outside the wall," he said. "We shall find them there when we leave."

He crawled a little farther on his knees, then turned right round and said:

"I am going to hang by my hands from the edge of the stone and let myself drop into his house. You must do exactly the same. Do not be afraid. I will catch you in my arms."

Raoul soon heard a dull sound, evidently produced by the fall of the Persian, and then dropped down.

He felt himself clasped in the Persian's arms.

"Hush!" said the Persian. And they stood motionless, listening.

The darkness was thick around them, the silence heavy and terrible. Then the Persian began to make play with the dark lantern again, turning the rays over their heads, looking for the hole through which they had come, and falling to find it.

"Oh!" he said. "The stone has closed of itself!"

And the light of the lantern swept down the wall and over the floor. The Persian stooped and picked up something, a sort of cord, which he examined for a second and flung away with horror.

"The Punjab lasso!" he muttered. "What is it?" asked Raoul.

The Persian shivered. "It might very well be the rope by which the man was hanged, and which was looked for so long.

And, suddenly seized with fresh anxiety, he moved the little red disk of his lantern over the walls. In this way, he lit up a curious thing: the trunk of a tree, which seemed still quite alive, with its leaves; and the branches of the tree ran right up the wall and disappeared in the ceiling.

Because of the smallness of the luminous disk, it was difficult at first to make out the appearance of things: they saw a corner of a branch . . . and a leaf . . . and another leaf . . . and, next to it, nothing at all, nothing but the ray of light that seemed to reflect itself. . . . Raoul passed his hand over that nothing, over that reflection.

"Hullo!" he said. "The wall is a looking-glass!"

"Yes, a looking-glass!" said the Persian, in a tone of deep emotion. And, passing the hand that held the pistol over his moist forehead, he added, "We have dropped into the torture-chamber!"

What the Persian knew of this torture-chamber and what there befell him and his companion shall be told in his own words, as set down in a manuscript which he left behind him, and which I copy verbatim.

CHAPTER XXI.

Interesting and Instructive Vicissitudes of a Persian in the Cellars of the Opera—The Persian's Narrative.

It was the first time that I entered the house on the lake. I had often begged the "trap-door lover," as we used to call Erik in my country, to open its mysterious doors to me. He always refused. I made very many attempts, but in vain, to obtain admittance. Watch him as I might, after I first learned that he had taken up his permanent abode at the opera, the darkness was always too thick to enable me to see how he worked the door in the wall on the lake. One day, when I thought myself alone, I stepped into the boat and rowed toward that part of the wall through which I had seen Erik disappear. It was then that I came into contact with the siren who guarded the approach and whose charm was very nearly fatal to me.

I had no sooner put off from the boat than the silence amid which I floated on the water was disturbed by a sort of whispered singing that hovered all around me. It was half breath, half music; it rose softly from the waters of the lake; and I was surrounded by it through I knew not what artifice. It followed me, moved with me and was so soft that it did not alarm me. On the contrary, in my longing to approach the source of that sweet and enticing harmony, I leaned out of my little boat over the water, for there was no doubt in my mind that the singing came from the water itself. By this time, I was alone in the boat in the middle of the lake; the voice—for it was now distinctly a voice—was beside me, on the water. I leaned over, leaned still farther. The lake was perfectly calm, and a moonbeam that passed through the air hole in the Rue Scribe showed me absolutely nothing on its surface, which was smooth and black as ink. I shook my ears to get rid of a possible humming; but I soon had to accept the fact that there was no humming in the ears so harmonious as the singing whisper that followed and now attracted me.

Had I been inclined to superstition, I should have certainly thought that I had to do with some siren whose business it was to confound the traveler who should venture on the waters of the house on the lake. Fortunately, I came from a country where we are too fond of fantastic things not to know them through and through; and

I had no doubt but that I was faced to face with some new invention of Erik's. But this invention was so perfect that, as I leaned out of the boat, I was impelled less by a desire to discover its trick than to enjoy its charm; and I leaned out, leaned out until I almost overturned the boat.

Suddenly, two monstrous arms issued from the bosom of the waters and seized me by the neck, dragging me down to the depths with irresistible force. I should certainly have been lost, if I had not time to give a cry by which Erik knew me. For it was he; and, instead of drowning me, as was certainly his first intention, he swam with me and laid me gently on the bank.

"How imprudent you are!" he said, as he stood before me, dripping with water. "Why try to enter my house? I never invited you! I don't want you there, nor anybody! Did you save my life only to make it unbearable to me? However great the service you rendered him, Erik may end by forgetting it; and you know that nothing can restrain Erik, not even Erik himself."

He spoke, but I had now no other wish than to know what I already called the trick of the siren. He satisfied my curiosity, for Erik, who is a real monster—I have seen him at work in Persia, alas—is also, in certain respects, a regular child, vain and self-conceited, and there is nothing he loves so much, after astonishing people, as to prove all the really miraculous ingenuity of his mind.

He laughed and showed me a long reed.

"It's the silliest trick you ever saw," he said, "but it's very useful for breathing and singing in the water. I learned it from the Tonkin pirates, who are able to remain hidden for hours in the beds of the rivers."

I spoke to him severely.

"It's a trick that nearly killed me!" I said. "And it may have been fatal to others! You know what you promised me, Erik? No more murders!"

"Have I really committed murders?" he asked, putting on his most amiable air.

"Wretched man!" I cried. "Have you forgotten the rosy hours of Mazenderan?"

"Yes," he replied, in a sadder tone, "I prefer to forget them. I used to make the little sultana laugh, though!"

"All that belongs to the past," I declared, "but there is the present . . . and you are responsible to me for the present, because, if I had wished, there would have been none at all for you. Remember that, Erik; I saved your life!"

And I took advantage of the turn of conversation to speak to him of something that had long been on my mind.

"Erik," I asked, "Erik, swear that . . ."

"What?" he retorted. "You know I never keep my oaths. Oaths are made to catch gulls with."

"Tell me . . . you can tell me, at any rate. . . ."

"Well?"

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pains in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are common symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Rushville residents demand further proof than the following testimonial?

Mrs. L. W. Smith, R. F. D. No. 19, Arlington, Ind., says: "My child was afflicted with kidney complaint and suffered severely from backache and headaches. The doctors could give no relief and the various remedies that were tried proved just as useless. At last we learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and my husband obtained a box. This preparation soon brought relief and since taking it, the child has been in much better health. I give Doan's Kidney Pills my most hearty endorsement."

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pains in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are common symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Rushville residents demand further proof than the following testimonial?

Mrs. L. W. Smith, R. F. D. No. 19, Arlington, Ind., says: "My child was afflicted with kidney complaint and suffered severely from backache and headaches. The doctors could give no relief and the various remedies that were tried proved just as useless. At last we learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and my husband obtained a box. This preparation soon brought relief and since taking it, the child has been in much better health. I give Doan's Kidney Pills my most hearty endorsement."

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

BAKING FAVORITE CAKES.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

Paper bag cooking bakes cakes as much as it does meat or pastry. Please to keep this fact in mind. Also the fact that you should never try to make cakes at haphazard. Instead, take a day or several days off from bridge and shopping and give your whole mind to the matter in hand. Decide first what cakes you care to make, then reckon up what you will need to make them of. Many a good cake has been saddened past all remedy through waiting at the wrong minute for some essential ingredient, overlooked in the general buying.

Never melt butter unless melted butter is specifically called for in your receipt. Set the butter crock outside the refrigerator for several hours before you need its contents—the kitchen temperature will make the butter just right for creaming. Keep eggs cool—they beat light the quicker for it. Always add a tiny pinch of salt to the whites in beginning to froth them—it makes the frothing easier and improves the taste. Eggs, it is needless to say, must be above suspicion. Sift flour and set it where it will get warm and dry without scorching, then sift it again before using it. Measure it after the second sifting, and if baking powder or soda and cream tartar are to be put in it, add them to the measured bulk, and sift a third time.

Cake must be beaten well, and thoroughly, if you want it firm, yet light, and of fine, close texture. Sweet milk helps to this fine texture. Sour milk or cream, contrarywise, tends to a coarse, bubbly grain.

Prepare fruit over night, if possible, washing and drying it well.

Two such flavors as lemon and vanilla, vanilla and rose-water, or rose-water and almond, give to cake a tang as delicious as it is unusual. A spoonful of brandy or even a good corn whiskey, beaten well through the cake just before the flavoring—which should be put in the very last thing—will make the cake lighter, better colored, and of better keeping quality.

Sift spices through part of the flour, adding the spiced flour alternately with what is left plain. Always sift sugar, and more than once if it is clammy. Warming it gently helps to make light cake. It should be sifted afresh after the warming.

As I have said, paper bag cooking bakes cakes as much as it does meat or pastry. It can be done in the bags, but I advise using in conjunction with the bags either paper soufflé-cases or very thin tin moulds, square, oblong, or round, or cases made from the bags themselves.

To make a square paper-bag mould, split in half a bag of the largest size, crease each half gently all round about three inches from the cut edges, and fold up each corner neatly, clipping the folds firmly with two or even three clips. Brush over this mould liberally with soft butter, taking care to cover every fiber. Fill three parts with cake batter, then slip the loaded mould inside a big greased bag which rests upon a wire trivet. Seal the outer bag, taking care that it does not press down the empty upper edges of the mould inside, prick two or three small holes in its upper side, and set the trivet on the broiler in a very hot oven. Put on the shelf above it a shallow pan filled half way with boiling water, and on the floor underneath a pan with a little cold water. Close the oven door and leave for ten minutes. Take out the water pans then, and after two or three minutes slack heat one-half and finish baking. The time will, of course, depend on the size and kind of cake.

Paper bag baking is a little quicker, and ever so much more certain. Small patty pans, or fancy-shaped muffin moulds, filled with cake batter and baked inside bags, will afford an almost infinite variety of ornamented good things.

SWEETS FOR THE SWEET.

By Nicolas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Beignets a la Portugaise: Wash well six ounces of Caroline rice, place it in a clean stew pan, adding four ounces of powdered sugar, two ounces of butter, half a stick of cinnamon and a strip of lemon peel or a very little grated rind of lemon. Allow the butter to melt, shaking the pan to avoid burning, then add a pint of milk. Cover closely and bring gently to the boil. Then draw the pan to the side of the fire and simmer slowly for rather more than a quarter of an hour, when the rice should have absorbed all the milk and be perfectly tender. Withdraw the pan from Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Will Address Women of Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Feb. 16.—Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, the English actress, who is to lecture here tonight on the subject of suffrage, is happy, she says, because women are taking such an interest in suffrage. She said she would have something new to offer for a lecture next season. Just now she is planning a title for it.

NOTABLE TRIBUTE TO STEEL CONSTRUCTION

Slight Loss of Life When Train Went Into Ditch.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 16.—At Warrior's Ridge, four miles west of Huntingdon, the Pennsylvania limited, east-bound, one of the fast Chicago-New York flyers, was wrecked.

A dining car and eight steel Pullman sleeping cars left the track and plunged down a thirty-foot embankment to the edge of the Juniata river. Of 102 persons aboard, three were killed and sixty-seven injured, several seriously. The dead: Harry A. Nauss, New York city; Mrs. J. F. Tavenner, Cordova, Ill.; Mrs. Hall, colored, matron on Pullman car.

The list of injured includes G. A. Yeatts, president of Fiske university of Nashville; Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Yeatts, the latter a sister of Dr. John Finney of Baltimore; Dr. Edward Leonard of New York, and Dr. and Mrs. W. G. White of Pittsburgh.

Though behind time, the train was running at only ordinary speed, when the two locomotives and a combination baggage and mail car parted from the remainder of the train, consisting of a dining car, eight Pullman sleepers and an observation car, all of steel. All except the observation car left the track and went over the bank, turning on their sides toward the water. The observation car toppled slightly, but did not go over. The locomotive and combination car kept the track, running several hundred yards before they could be stopped.

C. A. Preston, superintendent of the middle division of the Pennsylvania road, reported officially to the state railroad commission that the wreck was caused by the breaking of an arch bar under the front truck of the locomotive nearest the train.

The wreck is likely to be carefully studied by experts, as it is the first big smashup of a modern all-steel train. It is said the showing will be distinctly favorable to the steel vestibule type of construction, for despite the terrible strain, none of the steel cars buckled, though in one of them the trucks were forced up through the floor, so heavy was the impact. It is considered a tribute to the steel car type also that practically a whole train could go over a river bank at full speed with so small a number of deaths and 50 per cent of the passengers not even slightly hurt.

HE KILLED GOEBEL

This Is the Story Told by Kentuckian Dying in Arkansas.

Helena, Ark., Feb. 16.—Fatally wounded in a duel with a bartender here, James Gilbert, who came from Kentucky, declared he was the man who fired the shot that killed Governor Goebel of Kentucky at Frankfort, in January, 1900. Gilbert said he had been a member of the Hargis faction, notorious in Kentucky feuds for two generations. Gilbert came to Helena three years ago. Recently he was made a deputy sheriff. County authorities declare he was without sense of physical fear.

Story Not Confirmed.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 16.—Gilbert's name did not appear in proceedings of the Goebel trial. Kentuckians who were closely in touch with the Frankfort tragedy say that after several men had been convicted and imprisoned, other men bragged they had been involved in the killing. It is impossible to confirm Gilbert's story.

AINSWORTH UNDER DISCIPLINE

Secretary of War Stimson Puts It Flat to President That Adjutant General Must Go or a New Secretary of War Be Found, and Mr. Taft Issued Orders Relieving Ainsworth Pending Disciplinary Action.

Washington, Feb. 16.—In the form of an order from Secretary Stimson relieving Major General Frederick C. Ainsworth of his duties as adjutant general of the army and directing him to remain in the city awaiting disciplinary measures, the long-expected culmination of the Wood-Ainsworth feud in the war department has come.

Orders for the courtmartial of General Ainsworth who, as adjutant general, is the second ranking officer in the army, are expected to be issued within a few days. The charge will be insubordination based on derogatory references to the secretary of war, the chief of staff and officers of the general staff which General Ainsworth incorporated into many of his official reports.

The announcement created a sensation in all official Washington. It is considered certain that the Ainsworth case will develop into the biggest military controversy since the Sampson-Schley affair in the navy. Almost simultaneously with the announcement of the dismissal of General Ainsworth, who has been a power in the army for thirty years, Representative Hobson of Alabama denounced that officer in a speech delivered on the floor of the house during the consideration of the army bill. Representative Hobson declared that General Ainsworth was guilty of conspiracy in taking part in the framing of the Hay bills for the reorganization of the military establishment and inserting in one of them a provision whereby he was to be enabled to retire with the rank of lieutenant general.

The situation in the war department was apparently brought to a head by a memorandum written by General Ainsworth on Feb. 3, though called for last December, on the proposal of the general staff to make changes in the form of the muster roll. In this memorandum, called for by the chief of staff at the direction of the secretary of war, General Ainsworth makes statements that are construed by Secretary Stimson as an attack on himself and the chief of staff and the officers of the general staff. Whereupon Secretary Stimson went to the White House with the matter and made it an issue with President Taft. The president was told that either General Ainsworth must go or a new secretary of war must be found. The president immediately directed that General Ainsworth be relieved and held on waiting orders until disciplinary measures could be decided upon. It was also decided that the adjutant general's office be turned over to Colonel H. P. McCain.

When the president's order had been made public General Ainsworth declined to make any statement whatsoever. Secretary of War Stimson and Major General Wood declined to speak of the case in any way.

Entering the army as a doctor Nov. 10, 1874, General Ainsworth has risen to the second highest office in the department.

WELL PLANNED

Was the Holdup by Which New York Bandits Got $25,000.

New York, Feb. 16.—As a taxicab with two bank messengers and a satchel with $25,000—3,000 $5 bills and 1,000 $10 bills—swept into Trinity place from Broadway, five men closed in on it. Three of them got aboard the cab, two of them beating the messenger senseless. The other sat on the seat with the driver, sticking a revolver into his ribs, while the cab dodged vehicles, passed policemen and hundreds of persons busy with their workaday affairs, until the taxi got to Church street and Park place, eleven blocks further on.

Here the driver was made to stop the cab and the three men, carrying the bag with the $25,000, jumped and got away in an auto which had been waiting.

ROOSEVELT PLATFORM HAS BEEN AGREED ON

It Will Be Given Out In Ohio Next Week.

New York, Feb. 16.—At a conference in which Colonel Roosevelt, Governor H. W. Johnson of California, ex-Senator Flynn of Pittsburgh, William Nelson of the Kansas City Star, and E. A. Van Valkenburg of the Philadelphia North American took part, the platform upon which Colonel Roosevelt will stand for re-election if he is the presidential choice of the Republican national convention at Chicago, was outlined. The conferees lunched with the colonel and then put in most of the afternoon at the Outlook office, editing the speech which Colonel Roosevelt will make before the Ohio constitutional convention on Feb. 21, and in which he will make a declaration of his progressive policies.

It is just possible that Mr. Roosevelt may fire the opening gun of the progressive-according-to-Roosevelt campaign in the letter in which he will reply to the demand for the conference of progressive governors held last Saturday in Chicago for more light to guide them upon their way, but from what those who talked with Colonel Roosevelt said, it seems probable that the letter to the governors will not be made public until after the Columbus speech.

Colonel Roosevelt would not talk about the conference at which his advisers helped edit the speech. "Wait for the speech," was his only answer to questions about it. He was equally reticent when asked about the opening of Roosevelt headquarters in Washington and the statement of Medill McCormick for the organization.

Mob Hangs Memphis Negro.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 16.—A mob lynched a negro accused of having attacked a sixteen-year-old white girl. A rope was tied about his neck, he was dragged to a bridge across a branch of Wolf river, hanged from the bridge and then the mob used his body for a pistol target.

"The Home For Savings"

FUR SEASON IS NEARING THE END

Trappers Say Quality Was Good and in Large Quantities Until the Extreme Cold Weather.

DROVE THE ANIMALS IN HOLES

Local trappers say they have been having bad luck during the recent severe cold weather because fur bearing animals have been keeping close to their holes. There is one notable exception to this, and that was on February 2, when the groundhog came out. However, he went back in a hurry.

Trappers say fur was abundant during the early part of the winter and that the quality was good. Now, however, the season is over, because the fur is losing its luster and is getting "rubbed."

There are still plenty of fur bearing animals in Rush county but some of the varieties are rapidly being killed off. But few minks are seen any more, although muskrats, raccoons, skunks and the like are comparatively common. There are twice as many foxes in the county as there were last year, but most of the trappers have been letting them live this winter and that accounts for the increase.

board of health for an order for a new structure on the theory that the present one was not a fit place for students to attend school. Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State board, made a trip to this county a year ago this winter to talk to the trustees of the county and while here made a hurried trip to New Salem and inspected the building. He pronounced it unsanitary after a short examination and condemned it. It was necessary therefore, for the advisory board and trustee to proceed to erect a new building at once.

The board and trustee advertised that they would receive bids early last spring. The bids were received but that was all. They exceeded the appropriation of $25,000 which is contrary to the law. The lowest estimate on the general contract was $22,980, which was made by Wolfe & Ewing of Indianapolis and the lowest bid in the heating plant was $2,993, presented by W. H. Johnson & Son of Indianapolis, the contractors who got the contract for the same branch of the work this time for $2,950, or $43 less. It is understood the bids were lower at the second letting due to a slight altering of the plans.

At that time the advisory board considered allowing the structure to be built by the lowest bidders and increase the appropriation, but they had another problem to face and soon found that would be an impossibility. The law provides that a township shall not be assessed more than two per cent of its taxable property to build a school house. The two per cent limit was only $1300 above the appropriation which would not be enough to pay for the building according to the first estimate. It was pointed out that the 1911 assessment, when it was completed, might show more taxable property, enough to make up the deficiency but the board and the trustee were afraid to take that chance.

DEMOCRATS VOTE FOR T. ROOSEVELT

Local Republican Walks in on Several Followers of Jefferson Who Were Participating

IN THE STAR'S STRAW VOTE

The Indianapolis Star has been conducting a straw vote for the Democratic and Republican parties in Indiana, and now it is attempting to take a poll of the women of Indiana for their choice for president, the candidates to be taken from any political party. The other day, while the poll of Republicans was being taken, a prominent Rushville Republican walked into the office of a well known Democratic attorney in search of a stenographer. He found several men of Democratic political faith in the office clipping ballots from a pile of Indianapolis Stars. They had already voted several ballots for Roosevelt, using fictitious names, and were preparing to vote all of the thirty or more ballots they had for the same man. It is asserted also that a number of local Republicans voted fictitious persons for William Jennings Bryan when the Democratic poll was being taken.

AUTO OWNERS WILL HAVE TO PAY MORE

John Dee Boosts Price of Fuel For Motors and Local Drivers Will Suffer.

TO COST $10,000 MORE IN 1912

Automobile owners in Rushville and Rush county will pay from $9,000 to $10,000 more for gasoline in 1912 than they did in 1911, because of the recent advance in the price of one cent a gallon made by the Standard Oil Company. In some quarters a further advance of one cent a gallon is expected before warm weather sets in. The gasoline, prior to the raise, sold at fifteen cents. It is estimated that at the increase cost of one cent a gallon, auto owners in the county will contribute from $10 to $16 a year more to the Standard Oil company.

With over 500 automobiles in the city and county, this means that the owners here will pay from $9,000 to $10,000 more this year than they did last year. These figures are arrived at through the estimate of an expert that the average automobile uses five gallons a day, or 1,800 gallons a year. It is estimated that one gallon of gasoline will drive a medium-sized touring car from ten to fourteen miles. This will furnish a basis of calculation for automobile owners, although many individual owners know pretty accurately just the quantity of gasoline required to drive their cars a certain distance.
